Roland Releases Four New Patch Collections for Roland Cloud Created by Electronic Artist and Sound Designer Brothertiger

Brothertiger Chillwave Patches Are Now Available for Roland's JUNO-106, JUPITER-8, JX-3P, and SH-2 Software Synthesizers

Los Angeles, CA, September 1, 2020 — Roland has announced the release of four new patch collections for Roland Cloud, all crafted by electronic artist and sound designer Brothertiger: JUNO-106 Brothertiger, JUPITER-8 Brothertiger, JX-3P Brothertiger, and SH-2 Brothertiger.

Best known for his dreamy, chillwave sounds, many of Brothertiger's new meticulously crafted patch collections were inspired by his own vintage Roland gear and drew on his passion for nostalgic 1980s electropop.

"I started by creating presets based on actual settings I use on the hardware versions," said Brothertiger. "I've got a JUNO-106, an SH-2, and a JX-3P, so creating presets for those emulations was fairly simple. From there, I just explored the synths more deeply and found some really interesting sounds."

As a self-produced artist, patch creation is a natural evolution for Brothertiger, who currently has about 12 hardware synths in his studio, all connected to a patchbay that he controls from a MIDI keyboard on his desk.

Each new Brothertiger patch collection on Roland Cloud features 32 patches. With these new collections, music creators can explore a wealth of new chillwave sounds, some of which may appear on Brothertiger's forthcoming full-length album.
