ROLAND CORPORATION U.S. TEAMS UP WITH MOTOBUNNY TO RELEASE FIRST ROLAND SESSION

Rising band climbs into the FMQB Top 10

Los Angeles, CA, June 10, 2015 — Motobunny is a brand-new, Icona-Pop-Meets-Iggy-Pop, American rock n' roll band with two dynamic front women and a debut album on Rusty Knuckles Music. They've been critically acclaimed and have tracks spinning on Sirius/XM as well as KROQ (L.A.) and many other radio stations around the U.S. Roland recently welcomed Motobunny into their esteemed family of artist endorsers.

Singer Christa Collins now rocks a Roland JD-Xi Interactive Analog/Digital Crossover Synthesizer, while co-singer Nicole Laurene jams on a Roland AX-Synth – the custom keytar of her dreams, complete with a beautiful black sparkle finish. The band recently headed to Roland's video studios to perform their song "Thinkin' About Me," as their debut in Roland's live music performance series, Roland Sessions. Check out the video on RTV.

Currently, the band's song "Let's Go Out" ranks in the Top 10 on the radio industry's FMQB Submodern Chart. For more information, visit www.motobunnymusic.com or follow them at www.facebook.com/motobunnymusic.

About Motobunny

Motobunny formed after members of two acclaimed rock bands, The Love Me Nots and The Woolly Bandits got on stage together in 2013. After years of sharing green rooms, tour vans, and seedy motel rooms, it was the first time they had performed as one band and the electricity was undeniable. Together they dashed off songs for a dual-frontwomen rock collaboration, enlisted the help of Love Me Nots drummer Jay Lien, and headed to Detroit to record a full-length album with Jim Diamond (White Stripes, Electric Six, Dirtbombs). Mixed by Bob Hoag (The Format, Dear and The Headlights, Ataris), and mastered by Jason Livermore (Rise Against), the result is 12 tracks of tough rock n' roll topped off with a girls-just-wanna-have-fun attitude.
